About style

In the course of its development, architecture came to what man had to deal with from the very beginning of his path of development - to natural forms.

Splice Arch is objects free from right angles and familiar forms form a different perception of reality among the townspeople.

About us

We have been producing small architectural forms using parametric design since 2010.

The main material we work with is wood, glued wood is coniferous and birch.

This material is eco-friendly and, when handled correctly, is durable outdoors.
